

Energy and Water Advisor (m/f), Berlin in Germany

Akelius buys, upgrades, and manages residential properties. The company owns 50 000 apartments in Sweden, Denmark, Germany, France, Canada, England and the United States. Akelius apartments are modernized and improved to a high living standard.

We are seeking an energy and water efficiency advisor to support our efforts to reduce utility consumption and costs globally. This person will lead our global energy and water efficiency strategy.

Your responsibilities

Developing global, and country-specific standards and guidelines; providing trainings to staff on best practices; support the collection and analysis of utility consumption data; acting as an advisor to staff in all countries; and providing technical assistance on planning and implementing improvements.

Your profile

Strong technical understanding of energy and water efficiency best practices in the residential multifamily sector; strong interpersonal and communication skills; experience in leading and managing complex, multi-stakeholder projects; experience in construction or property management is a plus.

You will receive

Competitive compensation with a highly motivated and entrepreneurial work environment, continuing education, and career advancement opportunities.

You can find more information at akelius.de

Please send your resume accompanied with a cover letter and salary requirements to bewerbung@akelius.de